Leicestershire's SEND Services

Inspection Findings and Next Steps

Your voice matters!

This is a summary of the recent inspection for services for children and young people with Special Educational Need and Disabilities (SEND) in Leicestershire.

Overall Findings

The inspectors found that services in Leicestershire lead to inconsistent experience and outcomes for children and young people with SEND.

This means that some children and young people get the support they need, but others have different or less positive experiences. The local area will work jointly to make improvements.

Different experiences. A brighter future is possible - and we will work together to make it happen.

What's working well?

- We identify your needs.
- We work well together.
- You received good support in schools and other providers.
- We listen to you and involve you in decisions.
- Some of you get support when you really need it.

What needs to be better?

- You wait too long for some health services.
- You often have different experiences with support across health, education and care.
- The quality of your plan is variable.
- Some of you do not attend your school or college as often as you should or do not always know where your next school or college is.
- You and your family do not always have support while you are waiting for health services.

What happens next?

We will work together to make improvements. Here are the next steps:

- Update our plan
- Work together
- Reduce waiting
- Improve experiences
- Keep listening
