

Includes Business Skills, Counselling, Psychology, First Aid, Complementary Therapies, Family History, Astronomy and Journalism.

Neurolinguistic Programming: This course prepares you to notice what you are doing that works ... or doesn't, which means you generate many more useful choices. You will understand how to really communicate and develop great relationships through learning to think differently and expanding your world view to reduce stress, increase confidence and set do-able, compelling goals.

Business Skills: Want to balance the books? We have a selection of Manual Book Keeping courses and Start Your Own Business skills courses available that will help you to get started. See also ICT/Computing for SAGE Accounting.

Counselling: Designed for anyone who would like to develop their understanding of counselling and the ability to use counselling skills.

Ideal for you if you are working in a caring profession, voluntary and social work, or if you would like to develop skills to help others as well as helping you in your own personal development.

Family History: This introduction helps you to start your family history research by showing you the websites, censuses and parish records, plus places to visit and much more!

Astronomy: Have you ever looked up on a clear night and wanted to know more about the stars? What constellations and planets can you see? How far away are the stars? These are just a few of the questions you will explore, as well as discussing planets, stars and galaxies.
