

Helping adults with mental health needs, remain independent

Our vision

To support people in Leicestershire with mental health needs to live in a place called home surrounded by the people they love and with access to the things they choose to do. We will ensure that we have access to suitable accommodation across the county and within communities where people can live in their own home, with the support they need, and do the things that matter to them.

What we will do...

We will work closely with partners in health, housing and the independent and voluntary sectors to ensure the right support is available at the right time and in the right place, to help adults with mental health needs to stay well and have greater choice and control over their lives.

We'll do this by...

Making sure adults aged 18-67 years old with mental health needs are only placed in a residential care setting for as short a time as possible, on a temporary basis. By working closely with adults aged 18-67 years old with mental health needs, their families and carers, residential care providers and health professionals, we will identify and support them to live in a place called home.

We'll help individuals to have the right flexible help in the right place at the right time. When they are able, support services will be stepped back to enable people have more control over their life, but if that help is needed in the future it will be available to enable them to remain in their own home.
